Lives Are Touched

You are making a difference. Your gifts to synod ministries through your congregation are touching lives. Consider these comments from two people who experienced God's love through programs you support at the Good Shepherd Home:

"I really feel like people care about me here," says Krista Harakal. Krista suffered a stroke at age 14, an extremely rare occurrence in children. Now, thanks to the therapy she received at Good Shepherd, Krista is back at Northampton Area High School full time.

John Scolastico thought his visit to the doctor would be a routine cardio check-up. He didn't know that it would be the last normal moment of his life. Following a series of surgeries and setbacks, John found himself at Good Shepherd, completely immobile; the only thing he could do independently was feed himself.

"All the staff at the Raker center were great," he says. I was afraid I would be there for the rest of my life. But the nurses kept telling me, 'you can do it.'" And, thanks to the staff at Good Shepherd, he did.

Good Shepherd Rehabilitation Hospital is more than just a hospital. Good Shepherd is you touching others with the love of God. Thank you!
